

The Mothers Minder® Silicone Reminder Bracelet Collection

An exciting product for new parents!

The revolutionary Mothers Minder® Reminder Bracelet helps you to remember when you: last fed baby; put baby down for a nap and when baby woke; or, gave last dose of medication. Just position the slider on the number or dot that represents the time of activity. Each dot indicates a quarter hour.

For breastfeeding mothers: simply place the bracelet on the wrist that corresponds to the breast that you finished nursing. For your next feeding, refer to the bracelet to know which breast to offer your baby first, then switch breasts and place the bracelet on the other wrist.

By using this bracelet, you will discover your baby's natural routine; eating, burping, diaper changes, sleeping, and loving. You'll be able to quickly assess and address your baby's needs, thus, reducing stress for you and your baby.

Now, there's no need to keep track in a feeding log, the bracelet keeps track for you.

Mothers have also found the bracelet useful for tracking nap times, number of soiled diapers in a day, last time dose of medication given, and number of kicks in utero.
